Class Committee.

GEORGE COMBE MANN, Class Secretary.

JOSEPH LEAVITT SANBORN.

ARTHUR BROOKS.

TO THE CLASS.

IN the accompanying Report, I have gathered together such statistics of the Class as it has been customary to publish. They have been collected, at considerable trouble, from the most trustworthy sources, and may, I think, be relied upon as correct,—at least, in the most important particulars. The list of Ball matches, which we may look upon with especial pride, has been prepared by Mr. William Worthington, from the records of the Clubs, and gives a true statement of the successes and defeats of the various Nines.

It is intended in the future to issue a report triennially, to contain a brief account of what each member of the Class has been doing; and for this purpose, as well as for the more particular information of those who may make inquiries at Commencements, and at other times, it will be necessary for each one to write a full account of himself, as often as once a year, to the Secretary. By doing this, with comparatively little trouble to yourselves, you will save much work and many mistakes, which will be sure to accompany information indirectly obtained, besides conferring a favor upon your friends. The Class Fund, also, will need your assistance.

The post-office address of the Secretary will be "Cambridge, Mass.;" and all Class Notices will be published in the "Boston Advertiser," "Journal," and "Transcript."

In conclusion, let me thank you for the uniform courtesy which you have shown in fulfilling the many requests I have been obliged to make of you; and, hoping that the best of fortune may attend each one of you in the future,

I am, sincerely, your friend and classmate,

GEORGE C. MANN.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

NUMBER IN THE CLASS.

AT the examinations for admission in the summer of 1863, 117 candidates were successful. One, however, left so soon that his name never appeared in the catalogue; and two left during the first term of the Freshman year.

At the beginning of the Sophomore year, 16 had left the Class for various reasons, and 10 were added; making the number for that year 108. Besides these, one was admitted at the beginning of the year, who stayed but a week.

At the beginning of the Junior year, we had lost 12 more, and gained 5, one of whom remained only about a month. During that year, 6 left; and in the Senior year we numbered 94, all of whom will graduate.

At various times, therefore, 133 have been connected with the Class.

Of those who have left the Class, 4 joined '68, 17 have gone into business, 3 are studying medicine, 2 are studying law, 2 went to Dartmouth, and 1 is teaching.

Five members of the Class have died:—

George William Eaton, June, 1866.

Jay Galusha Huntington, 1865.

David Holder Nichols, Nov., 1865.

Anthony Abraham Rhodes, June, 1865.

Walter Henry Seaver, March, 1867.

Sixteen of the Class intend to go to Europe this year, five for the purpose of continuing their studies.

Having been requested to do so, I have obtained statistics of the religious belief of members of the Class, as well as that of their parents, not realizing, until the work was half accomplished, how few of the Class were decided on this point. It will be noticed that quite a number are included under the head of "Unsectarian." In the majority of cases, this must be understood as indicating more or less indecision, but connected with a spirit of inquiry, and a willingness to accept whatever belief common sense may lead to.

The statistics concerning smoking, drinking, &c., have not been taken this year, although it was known that there was a desire to have them published. The reasons for this are the same as those which have prevented former secretaries from attempting to obtain them; viz., the impossibility of adopting any standard which should justly divide drinkers and smokers from non-drinkers and non-smokers, and the difficulty of determining how long an abstinence should entitle any one to be reckoned in the class of tee-totallers.

To save the feelings of the advocates of the prohibitory law, the vote of the Class on that subject has not been taken.

The following record concerning prayers, recitations, deductions, &c., although it cannot be relied upon as in every case absolutely correct, is approximately so: —

We have attended, during the course, more than 2,000 recitations and lectures, and over 1,000 prayers; being allowed to "cut" one prayer every two weeks, or ten in a term.

There have been —

- 28 who have received no deductions for cutting prayers;
- 6 who have never had an unexcused absence from recitation;
- 36 who have never been tardy;
- 11 who have never had deductions, except for cutting;
- 7 who have had no deductions;
- 20 who have had less than five unexcused absences from recitation during the course;
- 8 who have had only one such absence; and
- 12 who have not been absent three days during the whole course.

The Gymnasium, measurements of 67 members of the Class have been taken by Mr. Molineaux, to whom the thanks of the Class are due for coming to them, when he found that they would not go to him. In connection with these, I have placed some other statistics which seem to be as appropriate here as anywhere. They are arranged for comparison with former classes.

The "Harvard Magazine" having died a lingering death, and being finally buried at the beginning of our Sophomore year, the University was, for a time, without any literary organ. At the beginning of the spring term of our Junior year, however, the "COLLEGIAN," a fortnightly newspaper, was started, under the auspices of six editors, three from '66, and three from '67; viz.:—

CHARLES SIBLEY GAGE,
WILLIAM GIBBS PECKHAM,
JOSEPH LEAVITT SANBORN.

A slight controversy with the Faculty, soon after, resulted in the name being changed to the "ADVOCATE," and the corps of editors enlarged so as to include all "the undergraduates of Harvard College." Since that time it has continued to flourish, and is, at present, one of the established institutions of the College.

The Sophomore-class supper took place Nov. 22, 1864, at Taft's Hotel, Point Shirley, and was attended by about sixty of the Class.

The usual Senior-class supper was voted at a Class meeting; but, as there were very few who desired to go, it did not take place.

The success of the Class Fund has been promising, and it will probably amount to nearly four thousand dollars.

The photographs have been taken by John A. Whipple, of Boston, to whom the thanks of the Class are due for his uniform courtesy, as well as for the excellence and beauty of his work.

On the matrimonial question, the Secretary must confess himself at a loss. He had been under the impression that it was customary, on Class Day, for each of his more fortunate classmates to bring the chosen fair ones, and introduce them to him. Finding that he had been deceived in this, he was compelled to make inquiries among those whom the attractions of Cambridge still retained; and he has succeeded in discovering that nine (9) are (or were) positively engaged, and an equal number are in great danger of a similar fate. On pushing his inquiries farther, he has heard of no less than forty-eight who would like to be engaged, of whom thirty-six evidently know the objects of their affection. One wretch has been reported as engaged to three different persons within as many months, but I have the highest authority for contradicting this rumor.
